Reactive Eco Crisis Art Workshop

How did the youth learn through arts in Finland?

How was it?

What changed in me?

ABOUT ME

- Hi!

My Works

YLTA changed the way I think art. Exhibitions so far in Finland, London, Greece, Italy

YOUTH LEARNING THROUGH ARTS

How YLTA
Changed The Way
I Think Art

I've made involved works related to:

- the treatment of animals
- the environment
- climate crisis
- human rights

This was already before YLTA, but after the workshop I started having a different approach.

I no longer use art to blame, but to inspire and spread hope.

"Notice Us Small"

What
Notice Us Small
represents

The work series constitute a reminder:

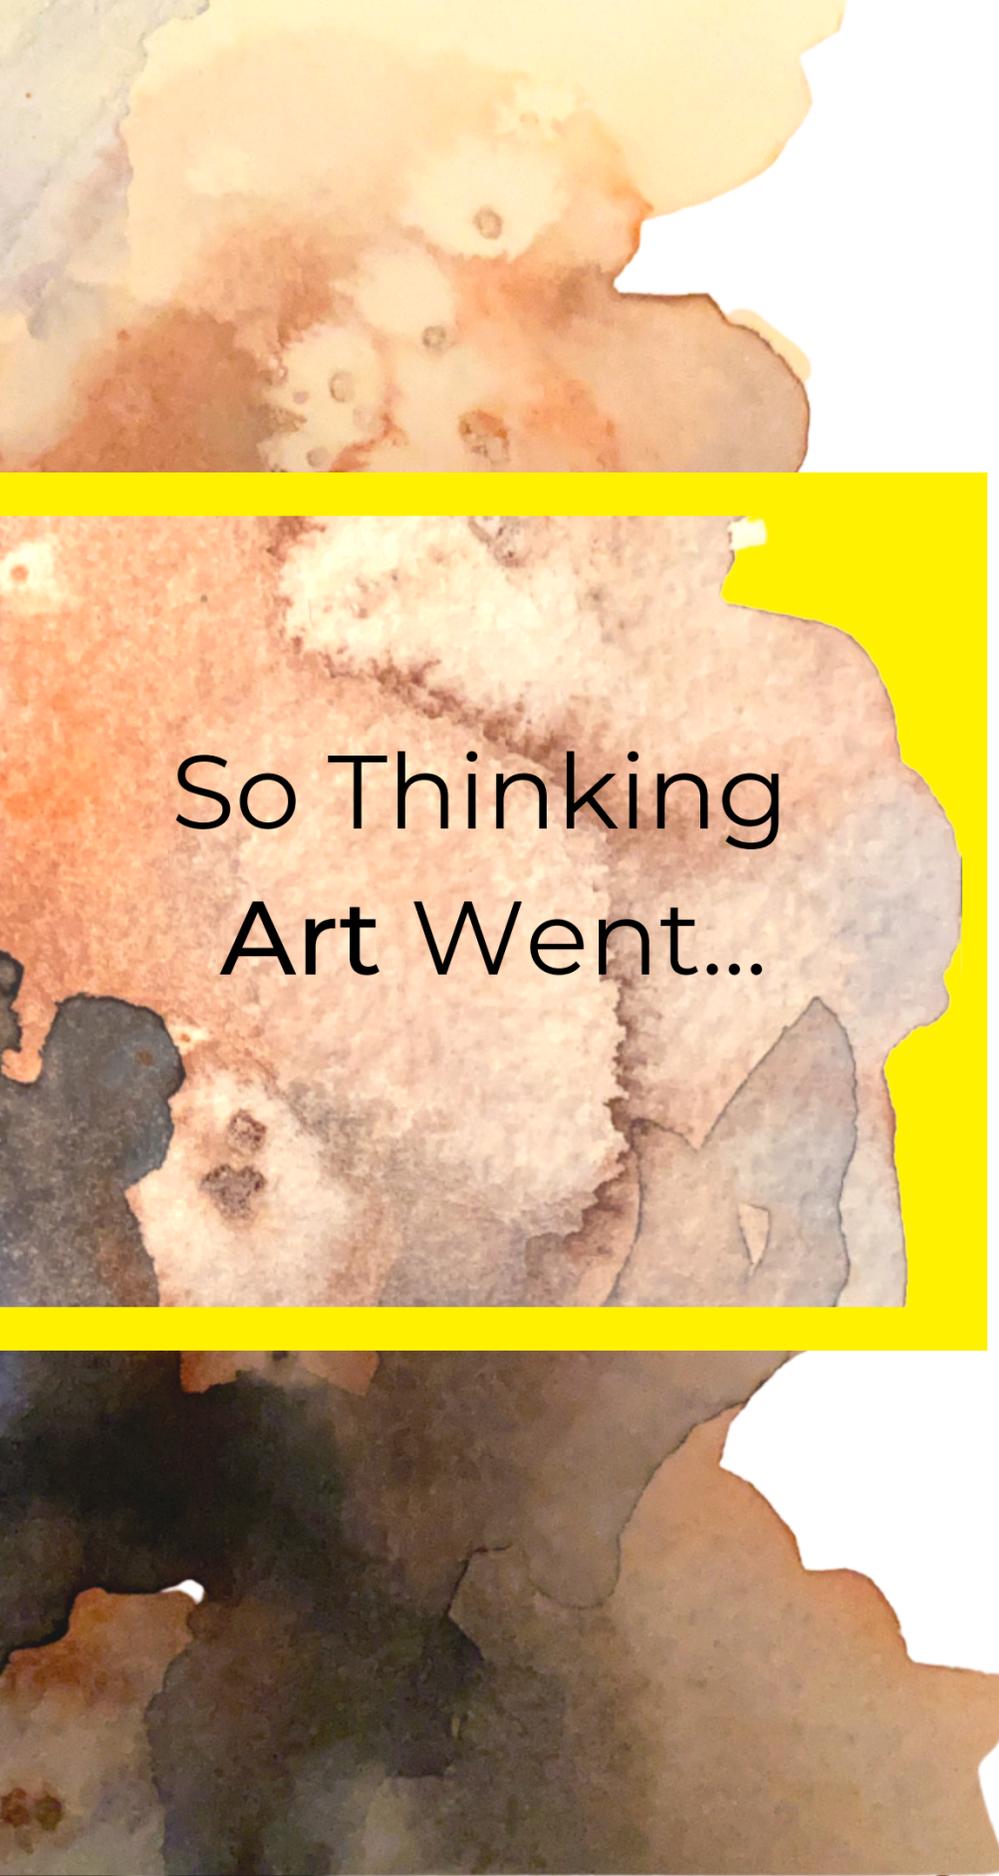

"Even small, possibly unnoticed animals that need protection are just as important as individuals that get bigger coverage."

What
Notice Us Small
represents

It is also a metaphor for the sentiment of feeling small. We often might experience that it is difficult to bring more into the world and help the situation to improve.

Art enables even a small contribution and the freedom to express an opinion.

It makes you feel better. It makes us all feel better.

So Thinking
Art Went...

From:

"I want to make everyone see how the world suffers. We need to do something"

To:

"It's my way of dealing with uncertainty, but also the desire to make an impact towards a hopeful future and to inspire people "
